

Bruce K. Johnson Senior Vice President

Mr. Johnson is currently a Senior Vice President of Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services, Inc. He has specialized in Commercial Real Estate for 28+ years. Mr. Johnson was top producer for the Commercial Division in 1995, 1997, 1998, 2000, 2004, 2007 and has been either the Top Producer or one of the Top Producers for many years. Mr. Johnson has represented Frontier Airlines, U.S. Foods Corporation, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, American Retail Supply, Majestic Metals, Alltell, Quality Linings, Monaghan Farms and numerous other corporations and private entities.

Mr. Johnson is a member of the Denver Metropolitan Commercial Association of Realtors, the National Association of Industrial and Office Properties (NAIOP), and has qualified for the Million Dollar Roundtable every year since and including 1984.

Prior to the commencement of his real estate career in 1981, Mr. Johnson was the sales and account manager for the largest retail food brokerage company in Denver, a salesman for Keebler Company, and employee of The Industrial Company in Steamboat Springs, Colorado, an emergency room technician with the US Army in Okinawa and received his formal education at Colorado State University in Ft. Collins, Colorado. He was raised on his family farm, which he still owns near Hershey, Nebraska.

Mr. Johnson is past President and current President of the Rotary Club of Denver Stapleton and a member of the St. Thomas More Parish. He devotes much of his free time to the many community projects which include the Ronald McDonald House, American Cancer Society, and the Multiple Sclerosis Society. When he is not devoting time to community projects, he spends time with his wife Barbara, an employee of Comcast, his son Christopher, a commercial appraiser with CB Richard Ellis and grandson Easton

